

GMR Newsletter Introduction

Hello and Welcome to the first official GMR Newsletter! This newsletter has been a long time coming and we are excited to be able to reach out to you through this forum on a quarterly basis. Our purpose and desire behind the newsletter is to initiate, build, and deepen our relationships with our clients. Here at GMR we are a family and friends business, and we want to extend our culture to you.

Each quarter we will provide a couple of experiential and industry leading articles to educate you on current trends and practices we are seeing in our collaborative worlds. We will also include short stories about Who GMR Is and the heart behind why we do what we do and how we are here to help you. Occasionally a poll or interactive component will be included, and we hope you take the time to provide feedback. We will keep the newsletters brief to be considerate of your time. We are here to serve you and want to help you find joy in the space you work in each day!

We look forward to dropping into your inbox and hope our newsletter not only equips you with knowledge but also brings a smile to your face.

EnJOY,
Jamie R. Killough

Christmas Greetings from GMR's Founder, Mike Ross

When I think about this time of year, I find myself at an intersection between two words: “Wander” and “Wonder”. There is an infinite difference! We generally define the two words below this way:

Wander meaning you drift aimlessly. When you wander mentally, your thoughts get lost. And when you wander physically, you don't have a destination, so it's also possible to lose your bearings and not know where you are — or how to get back. That's why wander is also used to describe someone who drifts from place to place without a sense of direction or purpose.

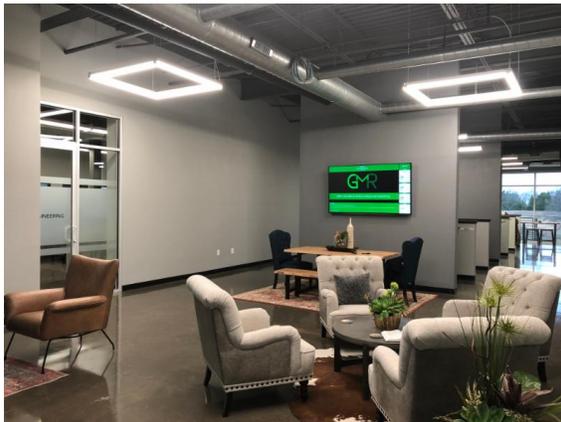

Wonder comes from the Old English word wundor, meaning "marvelous thing, the object of astonishment," anything that amazes and marvels is a wonder — though we tend to forget this because we are used to them.

What's the Point? We have a saying at GMR – “Never lose the Wonder”! Having been so Graciously Blessed over these many years as a work Family, it is absolutely essential that we intentionally seek to identify and openly share when we have seen the Mighty Hand of God, Work along the way = in every detail – Big or Small! I see the Miracle of God's Gift to us by providing His only begotten Son, born of a virgin 2000 thousand years ago as a means for us to become a part of His Family forever! This is where I see the need to ask the question, especially at this time of year = “Do I “Wander” or do I “Wonder”? Merry Christmas, Take a Big Deep Breath of it!

Merry Christmas from the GMR Family!
